- ASH Academy On Demand (Learning Management System): A variety of ASH Academy OnDemand offerings have been developed by subject-matter experts to meet your professional education needs. Activities include online courses, webcasts, and simulations.
- ASH Clinical News: ASH Clinical News is a magazine offering news and views for the broader hematology/oncology community. Each month, ASH Clinical News provides the latest updates in the field as well as perspectives and opinions from key leaders. The publication also provides tools and resources to help clinicians with quality and performance improvement, patient education, and the economics of running a practice.
- The ASH Image Bank: The ASH Image Bank is a web-based image library that offers a comprehensive collection of images relating to a wide range of hematologic topics, that allows the entire hematology community the ability to discover high quality, peer-reviewed hematologic images.
- Blood Journal: An online subscription to Blood, the journal of the American Society of Hematology, is only available through the Health InterNetwork Access to Research Initiative (HINARI) of the World Health Organization. If you would like to receive free online access to Blood, please visit the HINARI website for eligibility and instructions on how to register your institution.
- Blood Advances: Blood Advances is a semimonthly medical journal published by ASH which provides an international forum for the publication of original articles describing basic laboratory, translational, and clinical investigations and guidelines in hematology. The journal covers all aspects of hematology, including disorders of leukocytes, both benign and malignant, erythrocytes, platelets, hemostatic mechanisms, vascular biology, immunology, and hematologic oncology.
- Blood: Latin America edition (Available in Spanish and Portuguese): Blood Online Latin American edition, which debuted in 2018, features a selection of Blood articles curated by a team of leading hematologist in the region, covering the full aspects of hematology, including malignant and non-malignant disorders. The articles are presented in an educational format with key learning points, Question & Answers, and the local perspective of an expert from the continent, presented in Spanish and Portuguese language.
- Blood Podcast: The editors of Blood are pleased to introduce a new podcast series, published weekly in conjunction with each issue of Blood. Each episode will highlight selected content from recent articles published in the journal. You can listen on the ASH website, iTunes, Google Play, and Spotify.

- Career Development Articles: Articles from The Hematologist and other sources that may be of particular interest to those interested in pursuing a career in hematology.
- The Hematologist: The Hematologist: ASH News & Reports is ASH's official member newsletter. The Hematologist is published six times per year and covers important developments in hematologic research, clinical practice, and health-care policy, as well as important updates about Society events, initiatives, and services.
